WILL EXHUME CARLTON'S WIFE

JUSTICE SEWELL ORDERS EXAM-INATION OF THE BODY.

Coroner Declares Prisoner Is a Degenerate, but He Has No Evidence to Convict Him of Crime-Witness Says He Sought Her Hand Soon After Wife Died.

Supreme Court Justice Sewell in Brook-Ivn yesterday granted the order applied for by District Attorney Clarke for the disnterment of the body of Mrs. Frederick E. Cariton, who died March 10 last and whose death was ascribed to tetanus. Carton's first wife, Jennie, died in Washington, D. C., in June, 1904, from the same

In the case of the first wife, it was alleged that she pierced her foot with a rusty needly while puting on her shoe. The secon wife, it is said, was made ill by dressing a sore on her pet cat's face. After receiving the order from Justice

Sewell yesterday, Mr. Clarke said: "I am acting entirely independently of anything that may be done by Coroner Flaherty. I shall have my own physician, Dr. O'Connor of Manhattan, perform the autopsy. Coroner Flaherty's physician, Dr. Emil Hartung, will no doubt be present to represent his office."

Coroner Flaherty continued his examination of witnesses in the case yesterday. He took the statements of Dr. De Lorme of Jay street, who attended the second Mrs. Carlton, also of Dr. Delatour of the Long Island College Hospital, where Mrs. Carlton was taken before her death. Nothing new was obtained.

Miss Marie Brosnam of 145 Wyckoff street testified that she had known Carlton for some time. Carlton on Sunday said he held her in very high regard, as she had been a bridesmaid at his wedding. He said there was no truth in the statement that he had ever been engaged to Miss Brosnam. Miss Brosnam told Coroner Flaherty that whin two weeks after Mrs. Carlton's death Carlton had made love to her and had proposed to marry her. "He told me in June," said Miss Brosnam, that he had made up his mind to have me If he couldn't get me by fair means he would have me by foul means. Miss Brosnam also said he told her that

Mrs. Carlton had written a letter in which she told him that in case anything happened to per she wanted him to marry Miss Brosnam, as he had made her life happy and she wanted Miss Brosnam's life also made

"I have decided that this man Carlton." said Coroner Flaherty, "is a degenerate and that his word cannot be believed. He lies at every point. I think it is a good thing he is in jail, but so far as the testimony that I have obtained is concerned I do not see how he can be convicted of any crime."
Inspector Cross and his detectives are seeking evidence against Carlton. His history seems to be in the dark and no one has come forward to tell anything about

Among his effects were found letters by the hundred. He also had a list of names of women, and attached to these names were initials, which the police say names were initials, which the police say signified to him just what the women were. This is a sample of what the police call Carlron's love code:

"P. P., admires; W. N., loves, jealous; W. B., marries; J. B., hates; W. W., dislikes; W. E., courtship; R. B., beautiful; W. C., engaged; A. S., strange, friendship; C. B., pansy love; Q. T., on the alert; N. L., gray eyes, don't trust; B. T., feline nature."

In going over the letters Capt. Condon of the Fuiton street station found several which he turned over to Inspector Cross. Among them is one dated Burlington, June 5, 1905, full of endearing terms and Among them is one dated Burlington, June 5, 1905, full of endearing terms and fear that "Fred" is going to desert the writer, who calls herself his wife. In it she speaks of him collecting insurance on her, as she "is all in."

This letter is supposed to have been written by Eleanor Vanderventer, with whom he was living at 116 Schermerhorn street Brooklyn at the time of his arrest.

TILE LAYERS ORDER STRIKES On 27 Apartment Houses if the Mosalo Workers Aren't Discharged.

The Tile Lavers' Union, now known under the arbitration agreement of the employers' association as the Tile Layers' Union No. 52, got busy vesterday among the independent general contractors, against whom it can strike without violating the arbitration agreement. James L. Devine, business agent of the union, reported that strikes on the following twenty-seven apartment houses in Manhattan and The Bronx would be declared to-day if marble mosaic workers who were employed by sub-contractors to do tile laying are not discharged:

MINE WORKERS MEET.

May Change Method of Voting to Delegate System

SCRANTON, Pa., July 17.-The seventh annual convention of District No. 1, United Mine Workers, opened in Washington Hall, Dunmore, this morning. District President T. D. Nicholls presided and on the platform with him were Secretary-Treasurer John Dempsey, Board Members Healy, McCulloch and Fallon and Vice-President Adam Ripscavage. Burgess Fuhr made the address of welcome. One hundred and seventy locals were represented.

It is expected that the question of changing the manner of voting from the referendum to the delegate system will be brought up, as there is some dissatisfaction with the present method.

John Mitchell arrived at 3 o'clock and notified the convention that he would be present to-morrow morning.

Stock Transfer Tax Law May Raise 83,000,000.

ALBANY, July 17 .- Indications are that the stock transfer tax law passed by the Legislature last winter will bring an annual hue into the State Treasury of upward of $5,000,000. The receipts from this source for the month of June on regular stock transactions were $440,200. These receipts would have been materially increased had the bucket shops paid the tax, and the State Comptroller's attention is to be directed toward the bucket shops at once.

reprimand yesterday to Inspector James Kane of the twelfth inspection district relative to his alleged conduct in failing to cooperate with Acting Captain Eggers of the Commissioner's staff in his investigation of conditions in the Far Rockaway precinct in June. At that time Eggers raided a poolroom over the head of Capt. Louis Kreuscher, and in his report complained that efforts had been made by the police of Far Rockaway to frustrate the work of the men under his command. Inspector Kane, he said, had insisted that a roundsman of the precinct be the com-

Eggers intimated that a disgraceful state of affairs existed in the precinct and Commissioner McAdoo ordered an investigation by Inspector Cortright. The inspector's report states that he did not find sufficient evidence to justify him in preferring charges against Inspector Kane or Capt. Kreuscher. Commissioner McAdoo, while accepting Inspector Cortright's report and recom-mendation that there be no trial, did not seem satisfied. He says in his letter to hearty desire which should characterize an officer of your rank in the prosecution of the defendants.

I want to say to you and to the others concerned in all parts of the city that I will not permit under any possible circumstances any officer or man interfering with officers attached to this office in the matter of securing evidence or making arrests in the enforcement of the law. I will not only consider it as evidence of lack of respect to the office of the Police Commissioner, but as subversive of discipline and utterly discouraging to honest and capable men who may be selected by me for plain clothes work and who naturally may at times excite the jealousy of precinct and district commanders when operating within their precincts and districts.

There is not sufficient evidence in this case to show how long the poolroom in question had been running or that Capt, Kreuscher had guilty knowledge of its existence but I am not at all satisfied that there was an earnest desire to ferret out this class of defendants in the Seventy-ninth precinct.

There cannot be two rules in any part of Greater New York. If poolrooms are illegal in the borough of Manhattan they are equally so in the borough of Queens, and the same applies to gambling and disorderly houses and other infractions of the law.

To insure the appointment of plain clothes men on merit and not through favoritism the Commissioner yesterday issued an order requiring that all applications by inspectors or captains for plain clothes men be accompanied by a full record of the men, stating whether they had served out of uniform before and if so in what precincts and under what captains.

The order will apply to all men now assigned to plain clothes duty.

MADDEN STOPS THE PHONE. Turfman Won't Let His Wife Converse With Their Sons.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 17 .- Mrs. John E. Madden was in consultation here today with her attorney, William Dickson, regarding her troubles with her husband, the latest of which are his charges in his divorce petition that she had held "intimate social relations with Louis V. Bell and Albert Simons," and father and other relatives.

"The next steps," said Mrs. Madden to-day, "will probably be the filing of a group of suits against Mr. Madden for making these statements. He charges me with having intimate social relations with Mr.

having intimate social relations with Mr. Bell and Mr. Simons. That phrase sounds bad and means nothing. He put the word social there for a loophole.

"I lived at Sheepshead Bay for seven years, and the people that I know there will laugh when they read what Mr. Madden has said in that statement regarding my "social" relations with Mr. Bell and Mr. Simons. I have met every turfman of any note in this country. They have all visited my reserved place in the stand. I know Mr. Bell and Mr. Simons as I do the rest. I don't know either of them very well. They are friends of Mr. Madden and he introduced me to them.

"Now, as to Mr. Madden's charges, we have sworn statements from him that he knows me to be a true woman, and I have knows me to be a true woman, and I have letters in bunches from him begging me to come back to him, and telling how pure and good he knows me to be. He says that my father is a spiritualist, perhaps intending that to be a slur on my father. My father is proud of his religion. Mr. Madden, I believe, has no religion.

LITTLE GIRL STARVING. Says She's an Orphan-Aunt Not Found at Address She Gives.

Mary Reardon, a poorly dressed nineyear-old girl, was found shortly after noon yesterday in the hallway of the office building at 39 Broad street and taken to the Hudson street hospital. Roundsman Higgins of the traffic squad, Roundsman Higgins of the trains square, who found the girl, said that she told him she was an orphan and had not eaten for two days. She gave her address as 5 Washington street and said she lived there with an aunt.

Higgins investigated, but could find no one of the name at the address the child gave. Dr. Vance, who took the child to the hospital, said she was suffering from heat exhaustion and starvation. Her condition is critical.

Capt. Zalvina in a Cell.

Capt. A. Zalvina of a barkentine which lies off Stapleton, and which is entered on the police records as the Romer, is locked up at Stapleton on a charge of felonious assault. The ciptain on Sunday engaged three sailors from William Corwith, a board-ing-house keeper in South Brooklyn. Last evening Corwith went out in a boat rowed by Pete Oberg, to collect for them. The captain ordered him off and fired three shots from a revolver. Corwith leaped from the rowboat and Oberg had diffi-culty rescuing him.

The Weather.

The area of high pressure from the Northwest, which caused cooler weather in this region on Saturday and Sunday, passed southeastward and was central yesterday on the south Atlantic Coast, shifting the wind from northwest to west and southwest and raising the temperature in the mid-dle Atlantic and New England States. The increased heat spread from the Atlantic Coast over the Ohio Valley and Lake regions. It was slightly cooler in the south Atlantic and Gulf States. Elsewhere the changes were slight. The highest temperature reported was 104, at Phœ ils, Ariz. There were thunderstorms and rain in the Gulf States and over the northern portion of the country from Montana eastward. Eisewhere generally fair weather prevailed.

In this city the day was fair and warmer; wind, fresh west to southwest; average humidity, 56 per cent.; barometer, corrected to read to sea level, at 8 A. M., 29.97; 8 P. M., 29.86. The temperature yesterday, as recorded by the official thermometer, is shown in the annexed

THE SLAVE GIRL IS INDICTED.

TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER OF Commissioner McAdoo sent a letter of PANDER WHO LIVED BY HER.

> Minority of Coroner's Jury Find That Berthe Claiche Shot Gerdron in Se f-Defense-Evidence That He Displayed a Gun and Threatened to Kill Her.

> The Grand Jury yesterday afternoon indicted for murder in the first degre; Berthe Claiche, who killed her master, Emile Gerdron. An hour before the Coroner's jury which had held an inquest brought in a verdict finding that the little French girl had killed the pander. Five of the Coroner's jurors made a minority report saying that the girl fired in self-defense.

> Berthe Claiche's mother and two sisters were with her in Coroner Scholer's court, the mother, Mrs. Louis Deon, being a witness for the defense. The prisoner was represented by Otto Rosalsky and Mr. Turnbull appeared for the District Attor-nev's office. William Hoffner, a grocer at 418 Sixth avenue, told of seeing Detective Morton arrest Gerdron at Seventh avenue and Twenty-fifth street on the night of July 8. Just before the girl fired the shots Gerdron broke from Morton's hold and half turned toward her, reaching for his hip pocket. Harry Moyne of 545 Franklin avenue.

his brother met Gerdron and told him that the girl had gone for a policeman.

years old and was an embroiderer in Paris until she met Gerdron. He put her on the streets six years ago, registering her under the French law, and brought her to New York a year later. Mrs. Deon came here eighteen months ago with Gerdron, who went to France to get her. She pretended to be Gerdron's wife so that she would have no trouble with the immigration officials here.

Mrs. Deon admitted that she served six months in a French prison for theft and that Deon is not her husband. Claiche, she said, disappeared fifteen years ago.

"Berthe was a good girl until she met Gerdron," said Mrs. Deon. "She was only 16 then. After he registered her I could not get her away from him, she was in such fear that he would kill her. He said he would cut her head off. Gerdron talked about marrying the girl, but never did so."

Mr. Rosalsky put in evidence a letter

Mr. Rosalsky put in evidence a letter which Gerdron sent to Mrs. Deon a few days before the shooting. The interpreter translated it as follows:

I am surprised at the accusations against me, and I defy you to produce any proof. First—I have never had an American mistress here or in other parts.

If these are the means that you coin to take my wife from her duties, you have acted very disgustingly. You are recompensing me in a very peculiar manner for what I have done for you. If my wife is not with me by the first of the month, I will see what I will do. You have done wrong; now do right, as it is the best thing to do. I have my wife's letter, and I don't believe she believes a word of what has been said against me: as for me and my wife, once more, do you wish peace or war? I salute.

"Were they married?" asked Mr. Turnranslated it as follows:

"Were they married?" asked Mr. Turn-

"No."

"Then why does he use the word 'femme'?"

"That means either wife or woman," explained the interpreter.
Coroner Scholer told the jury to find that Berthe Claiche killed Gerdron, and also to decide whether, on account of his threats and actions, she was justified.

"If you agree that she was justified, so return your verdict. If you think she was not justified, hold her for the Grand Jury.
If there is any doubt in your mind, leave the matter to a higher court," said the Coroner.

Coroner.
The majority verdict was that Berthe Claiche killed Gerdron, while the minority verdict added "in self-defense." The girl was sent back to the Tombs.

MAY END COTTON REPORTING. The Existence of the Division of Statistics Threatened by the Leak Scandal.

WASHINGTON, July 17.-The existence of the division of statistics and of the Government system of crop reporting is threatened by the cotton scandal in the Department of Agriculture. The present plan of carrying on the work is admitted by every one who has any connection with it as having proved a failure, and every effort is being made to devise some scheme that will prove invulnerable against manipulation or leaks. 'The growers' association wants the Government crop reports continued, and Secretary Wilson is so inclined, but he is also determined that if the work cannot be so done as to inspire and hold public confidence it would be better by far to do away with it altogether. He is now seeking advice on the subject from his aides and recognized statisticians and is hopeful of evolving some method which will make it impossible for officials to juggle or manipulate figures for their own selfish

As an incident of the inquiry into the cotton scandal, Secretary Wilson is looking into charges that have been made in the press that a certain employee of the Division of Statistics had been guilty some years of giving out advance information ago of giving out advance information relative to questions prepared for civil service examinations of experts who were desired as eligibles for appointment in the department. An investigation was made at the time and the employee in question was recommended for dismissal, but was saved by influence within the department. The case has been reopened by Secretary Wilson, it was said to-day, because of the recent publicity given the facts. All the evidence in the case is said to be on file with the Civil Service Commission.

recent publicity given the lates. All the evidence in the case is said to be on file with the Civil Service Commission.

Morgan H. Beach, United States Attorney for this district, who has charge of one phase of the investigation into the cotton crop scandal, has gone either to New York or Boston in search of evidence on which former Associate Statistician Holmes and his accomplices may be criminally prosecuted. Mr. Beach made no announcement of what he intended to do in New York or Boston, but it is understood that while in the former city he will confer with the brokers who were mentioned in Secretary Wilson's report announcing the dismissal of Holmes and his connection with speculators in New York. It is believed generally that two or three speculators in New York could tell a good deal about the "leaks" in the department, but it is not known if they could be induced to talk freely.

E. Marshall of St. Louis, took one of his employer's automobiles from the garage where it was stored in this city on Sunday evening and went off on a lark with some friends. On the way home he met with an accident in which the automobile was crushed between an elevated railroad pillar and a heavily loaded southbound trolley car on Third avenue. Four persons were seriously injured, and a dozen others bruised and cut by flying glass. The accident took place at Seventy-ninth street about 2 o'clock yesterday morning. The injured are:

DONNSCHAUSER, HELEN, 18 years old o 229 East Sixty-third street; scalp wound, internalf injuries and contusions of legs. Taken to Presbyterian Hospital, and later discharged.

JOHNSON, JOSEPH, 26 years, of 266 West Forty eighth street; broken nose and shock. Went home after treatment by the ambulance surgeon.

of 533 East Eighty-eighth street, contusions of head, shoulders and left leg. Taken to Presby MICHAELIS, CORA, 16 years old, of 226 Fast Seventy eighth street; internal injuries and cuts on hea later went home.

Those less seriously hurt were treated on the spot by the ambulance surgeons and left for home.

Johnson and the two injured girls were riding in the automobile with Lohse, who lives at 334 West Fifty-fifth street. Marshall has been stopping in this city at the Waldorf-Astoria for some time but at present he is touring another automobile, accompanied by his wife. Lohse took his employer's car from the garage on Sunday night and went for a spin in Central Park. There he met Johnson and the two girls and the four spent the evening riding in the park and at Little Coney Island, just above the park. Early in the morning the party started for the home of one of the girls, and Lohse came out of the park at Seventy-ninth street and Fifth Lippman, the conductor of the trolley, was standing on the running board at the time and was thrown some distance. James Graham, the motorman, jumped just before the car struck and was not hurt, though the collision smashed the front platform where he had been standing and bent the iron rods that support the hood. Passengers were thrown in heaps, and those in the forward seats were cut by glass.

Instantly there was a rush to liberate the girls imprisoned under the hood of the automobile, but the body of the vehicle had been partly overturned and crushed around them so that it was found impossible to extricate them without tools. A hurry call was sent for a repair wagon and for ambulances, and Drs. Reed and Barrett of the Presbyterian Hospital responded. The police gathered in both Lohse and Graham, each of whom wanted to prefer a charge of reckless driving against the other. Later they changed their minds and refused to make any charges, and both were set at liberty.

Carriage Smashed by Trolley Car. A surrey containing Max Dubin of 290 South First street, Williamsburg, his wife and their two children, 3 and 7 years old, and their two children, 3 and 7 years old, was smashed early yesterday morning at Broadwry and Keap street, Brooklyn, by a trolley car. The occupants were thrown out and the horse fell. An am'ulance came from the Williamsburg Hospital, bringing Drs. Lippold and Rarick. They found Mrs. Dubin suffering from concussion of the brain and lacerations on her left arm and hand. Dubin sustained lacerations on his head and face. The children escaped with contusions and shock.

OBITUARY. Mrs. Caroline Elizabeth Monell died at her

Mrs. Caroline Elizabeth Monell died at her mansion in Fishkill Landing yesterday in her ninetieth year. She would have celebrated her ninetieth birthday next month. She was a granddaughter of John Adams, second President of the United States. She was born on her father's birthday and President Adams wrote a congratulatory letter and a poem on her birthday. She was a daughter of the late John Peter DeWint, an old Knickerbocker. She first married Andrew Downing the landscape artist, who laid out the public grounds in Washington and other cities. He perished in the Henry Clay disaster on July 28, 1852. She later married Judge John J. Monell, who died some years ago. She leaves one daughter.

John Ackerman died Sunday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Samuel H. Dodd, 87 Washington street, East Orange, of cardiac asthma after a brief illness. He was 80 years of age and was born in New York, where he received his education. He served in the civil war with the Twenty-sixth New Jersey Volunteers. He belonged to the local G. A. R. post and was a Freemason. He also was a justice of the peace for many years.

Mrs. Mary Adelaide Duncan, wife of Major Kenneth J. Duncan, died at her home, 44 college avenue, New Brunswick, yesterday. The deceased was a daughter of Dr. Wilson Jewell of Philadelphia and was brought up in the Quaker City. FIGURED IN PANAMA SCANDAL. Emile Arton, Dead in Paris, Probably Emile Arton, who was one of the principal figures in the old Panama Canal scandal was found dead in his rooms in Paris yes terday, according to cable despatches from that city. It is believed that he killed him-Arton was the intermediary between Baron de Reinach and the French deputies who were alleged to have been bribed by the Baron. Arton wrote the checks and the guilt of 1:0 politicians was subsequently established by the stubs of his check book. In 1892, when the fraud was shown up, a warrant was issued for his arrest, Arton had fled, taking with him $740,000 of the funds of the French Dynamite Society. The French police hunted for him for months, finally capturing him in London. He was sentenced, on the charge of trying to bribe a deputy, to five years' imprisonment and $80,000 fine, and to twenty years' imprisonment and $600 fine for his connection with the French Dynamite Society. Through the intercession of his daughter Arton was pardoned in 1899. Baron de Reinach committed suicide.

HEAT" FIRED HIS FIREWORKS.

Owner Thinks a Rival's Match Made the Heat, but the Tactful Cop Wen't Say. The main attraction at the picnic of the Societá di Mutuo Soccorso Maria S. S. del Carmine, at Baldwin Park, Jersey City, last night was a fireworks competition for a prize of $50. It was originally planned to have three competitors, all manufacturers, but one, an Italian, was put out of business by the premature explosion of his stock of bombs, rockets and set pieces. His belief that he had a cinch on the $50 went up with the shanty in which his display had been stored. The building stood at the rear of the park, and the Italian kept a jealous eye on it for several hours. About 2 o'clock, while he was off guard, there was a terrific ex-plosion and the roof of the shanty started skyward. The building burst into flames and the air was filled with sizzling, splutter-op questioned the competitors, scratched his head and officially reported that "the damn things were set off by the heat."

"Caprio," said the chief last night, "has lots of tact. He is a born diplomat."

EXPRESS TRAIN BROKE IN TWO

And Obstructed Both Express Tracks Near Tarrytown

The New York Central Montreal Express, due here at 7:18 A. M., was running about thirty miles an hour yesterday morning between Scarboro and Tarrytown when the coupling between the rear car and the one ahead parted and the next to the last car jumped the track, wrenching itself loose in turn from the car ahead of it. It slued around so as to obstruct the northbound express tracks.

When the train stopped the passengers got out in a hurry, some of them badly scared, but nobody was hurt. The padly scared, but nobody was hurt. The passengers were transferred to local trains and reached the city with little delay.

The Empire State Express, bound north, was delayed twenty minutes. The Montreal Express came into town an hour and a half late.

New Jersey Road to Forty-second Street. PATERSON, July 17 .- After being held up for four months in the Common Council, the ordinance granting a franchise to the New York and New Jersey Rapid Transit Company passed its second reading to night. It was amended so that the company agrees to pay $3,000 a year to the city after the completion of the road for the privilege of elevating the tracks through a section of Pearl street. The New York terminal of the road will be at Forty-second street.

SWATTED RENT COLLECTING TENEMENT HOUSE OWNER.

Then She Shricked That a White Man Had Assaulted Her-Mob Heleaguered Stable Where Rovers Took Refuse -Cops to the Rescue-Amazon Cared.

N. Y. was the means of calling out the reand blacks. There was only one arrest. The lone prisoner was a buxom colored amazon named Josephine Tompkins. Josephine lives in the big double tenement at 412 West Thirty-ninth street, which Rovere owns. Negroes are the sole occupants of the house and there are about forty families in it. I overe says that Josephine is not a desirable tenant as she is a month behind in her rent. Heretofore an agent has always collected the rents, but Rovere called on Josephine in person yesterday to ask her to pay up. He will never call on her again without a regiment of cops at his heels. Rovers

Negroes swarmed out of the adjoining houses, and they thought Josephine's tale was true when they saw a very excited white man dashing out of the big negro tenement, with Josephine in hot pursuit. In a few minutes there were 500 negroes in the street.

of this stable, and these were closed as the negroes bore down on the place.

Rovere, badly scared at all the excitement he had unintentionally caused, called up Police Headquarters on the livery stable telephone and asked the police to hurry around the reserves, as there was a fullified ged riot in progress and he was in fear of his life.

While Rovere waited for the police to arrive the negroes kept gathering in the street. The children who live in Rovere's tenement house saw plenty of human targets in the street, and chunks of coal and pieces of wood began to fall on the heads below without distinction of race or anything else. That set the people in the street yelling some more, and they simply howled to get at Rovere. The buxom Josephine seemed to be the leader of the mob.

The reserves of the West Twentieth street station were first on the scene, and then patrol wagons with more cops came from the West Thirty-seventh. West Forty-seventh, West Sixty-eighth street and Tenderloin stations. Three police captains arrived with six roundsmen.

They dispersed the negroes and then found the scared Rovere. He told what had caused the trouble and pointed out the pugnacious Josephine. She was nabbed and made a prisoner on Rovere's charge of assault.

"It's tough," said Rovere, "when a man who might set on other rent collectors.

BUXOM NEGRESS STARTS RIOT

Leon Rovere, a real estate dealer of 119 Nassau street, who lives at Mount Kisco! serves of five precincts yesterday and starting an incipient riot among the whites found Josephine at home and told her the object of his visit. Josephine told him the object of his visit. Josephine told him that she thought he was a faker who was trying to get her to part with her hard earned money, and to prove that she could take care of herself she punched him in the face, knocking off his glasses.

Rovere was helpless without his glasses, and Josephine sailed into him. She punched and slapped him good and plenty. Rovere groped his way to the stairs and went down the three flights jumping. While he was trying to escape, Josephine set up a howl that she had been assaulted by a white man.

A cry of that kind on these hot days

A cry of that kind on these hot days on the West Side is apt to cause trouble. Negroes swarmed out of the adjoining skyward. The building burst into flames and the air was filled with sizzling, spluttering, snapping, banging things.

The fire department was called and the firemen found a lively blaze and an overheated Italian. The man charged that somebody who knew he would win the prize touched off his beautiful display.

He communicated his suspicions to the police, and Chief Murphy assigned Policeman Caprio, an Italian, to the case. The megrees bred was a strong doors on the front of this stable, and these were closed as the negroes bred was not the place.
